CAN YOU DO THIS?

You ought to be able to if you are on the sunny side of forty. If you can't, then something is wrong with you. What is it? Does it hurt you across the back, or are your legs weak? It is easy to be well if you will only give attention to the first warnings of Nature. She is very kind about it, and it is your own fault if you don't heed her and stop your troubles in their infancy before they become chronic.

Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy bought for $1.00 and taken away will perhaps be the means of preventing a long, painful KIDNEY TROUBLE or disease of the blood, with attendant Eczema, Erysipelas, Carbuncles and Rheumatism. It is all so easy that it is a surprise that people of both sexes do allow themselves to get run down and debilitated for a bottle when you feel the first symptoms will save you thousands of dollars in money and suffering later on.

If you want to know all about what the symptoms are and just how they ought to be treated, as well as seeing many testimonials from well-known people who have followed our advice, just drop us a postal card, and we will send you free our Booklet A. It is one of the finest medical books on the market and well worth careful perusal.

Universalist Centennial.

Historical Address—Delivered by Rev. Caroline E. Angell at the One Hundredth Anniversary of the Universalist Church at Norway.—The First Church of this Denomination in Maine.

This Historic discourse will swiftly include first an allusion to the organization of Universalism in America, then reference to the founding of this town of Norway, and a canvass of the establishing of the liberal faith here, for these estates are well high contemporary, so that a little of the history of the first two will easily be as a factor in the direction of the latter situation which is the main subject of our address.

There had been preaching of a quality of our doctrine in America as early as 1741, an Episcopal clergyman of South Carolina avowing and maintaining it from that time. A Congregational clergyman of Boston began advocating it in 1762, but John Murray, formerly a Methodist under Wesley and Whitefield, yet coming upon a book that taught of universal salvation, he adopted its views, for which he was made to suffer scorn, isolation and finally was excommunicated at Whitefield's tabernacle in London. Persecutions continued to him, financial embarrassments were invoked upon him, which together with the great sorrow of the death of his wife determined him to find retirement and relief in America, whence he came in 1770, preaching his first sermon in September of that year, at a little obscure place in New Jersey, called "Good Luck." More and more believing in the notion of final salvation to all, he earnestly set about the spreading of his views, though despised and even persecuted.

A dollar for a bottle when you feel the first symptoms will save you thousands of dollars in money and suffering later on.

If you want to know all about what the symptoms are and just how they ought to be treated, as well as seeing many testimonials from well-known people who have followed our advice, just drop us a postal card, and we will send you free our Booklet A. It is one of the finest medical books on the market and well worth careful perusal.

prise, but this busy young firm would not for a moment assume that it has the discouragements, the difficulties which attend upon so small a matter as a little clearing of three or four acres which their grandfathers had left them, which they grandfathers in the nineties of 1700, he purposed breaking for himself a small farm.

We honor all schemes which are for the transforming of the resources of the earth into commercial material, but in our approval of these schemes, and in our admiration of the greater courage and methods let us not weaken yet which our ancestors exhibited when they could set singly their two hands, backed up only by stout hearts, to bringing their purposes to an issue.

These men's individual strength and endurance, sustained and multiplied by the grace of the women of those days, these were all the powers they could set to their purpose of a home, of a settlement in a new, rugged province; and while we may honor the sturdy independence in his nature if no more masterful in the enterprises of to-day, yet surely it is with a different flavor of commendation that we think of the energy of the forefathers.

A little more than a century ago right here, where in the very midst of a civilized, industrial, picturesque area we are celebrating a satisfactory centennial feature, all about here there were simply "miles on miles" of dense woodland, handsome of possible utility, so satisfyingly full of a possible utility that it challenged the inspection of a few men, five I think, who had traveled down here from a distant district. Three of them had been in the War of Independence, and some of which they found themselves poor though generously paid off in continental money. Poor in pocket, without prospects in the places to which they returned, but loving the hunt, they excursions down to this district of that commonwealth, coming into the very lake, that is at our doors, which the Indians called the Pennesseewassee, with the waters wearied and the forest for growth and descent of the river, the indication of a fertile soil, together with other promises that would fulfill into industry, they followed out the habits of those times by breaking up some large forest, casting that this little beginning would evolve into a settlement that might take on more and more of dimension and civilization as the years should go by.

So under the liberal policy of the government which made easy the acquisition of land, these men staked out claims, lived for some months in the midst of all that clearing that they might make a little clearing as the beginning of the homes unto which they would bring their families the following spring. They are left well nigh to imagine their hardships, for the historian has barely touched upon such. Seemingly to think that difficulties were only so many natural reasons for greater endeavor, the writer has not noted the sufferings, the dismays as features of that concise little volume, which was written some fifty years ago, and is the chief appeal of ourself for the facts needful to our review.

Not esteeming it was the hardships that counted but the achievements by way of those adverse conditions, the chronicler has far more largely recorded what the pioneers accomplished than how they succeeded, so that we are left to fancy, as we readily can, were some of the men, the sufferings, the dismays which attended the resolve to have this section yield its resources, and disclose its possibilities of a settlement that by and by might exhibit villages all about as the outcome of their single venture. Thus through the summer of 1788 these five men—Joseph Stevens, Jonas Stevens, Jeremiah Hobbs, Amos Hobbs and George Lessly—invading these wilds, made what preparation they were able in order that their families might be brought out, the next spring.

One of these men, aided by his four companions, early in 1787 put up a frame house somewhere near and above the lake, a little building sixteen feet by twenty, and the winter of that year, splitting out plank and hewing these for a floor, with all their journeying through the woods making a spotted trail to guide their return from beyond Stony Brook, which they had to do, the settlement which had grown to the third of a mile, where each shouldered a load, out of which to fashion their new house, which when it was made at all habitable, Mr. Stevens in May of 1787 went for his family, a wife and four children, who had previously fled to Hebron to be twenty miles nearer their contemplated location.

This, we read, was the first household established in this town. Before the year expired some of the other men brought their families, who were taken into this small house, till cabins could be finished for their own occupying. There were experienced all sorts of privations, sometimes with hunger as the most forbidding, since provisions were very scarce, the scrubby plants, seed poorly yielding any harvest; while the nearest point of buying produce was tediously far; with very, very little money to buy and scarcely nothing to offer in barter.

So limited indeed was the community's food as that when one of the settlers had the misfortune to break a leg, his family of three children was so destitute, as that though the neighbors heard his cries most kindly and their spirits could offer no relief, when the wife of the stricken man justified herself in digging the planted potatoes from a nearby field, with which to feed her clamoring children.

Such as this were some of the straits to which those pioneers were reduced. Their best estates surely could invoke no envy! While their descendants do indeed rejoice in the town which they have so sprung. There is no coveting of the experiences of those long ago fathers. The most they then had was meager, never quite a sufficiency, while the poorest harvests to their labor must have occasioned for distress, yet the next year all underdressed by the hardships which had attended the previous settlers, a dozen or more families added themselves to the settlement, thus greatly increasing the strength and the courage of the little colony.

Meanwhile, on Hebron, Rust, a descendant of them, by the conditions of a gift of land has obtained permanence to this very society, this Henry Rust, then a resident of Salem, active and thrifty, a true friend to all pioneering, and in 1789, bought of the government of Massachusetts a tract of land, which included what had been taken up by these first comers and his name was given the settlement being now known as "Rustfield."

He at once built a grist and saw mill for the people. Previous to this great enterprise, the settlers mostly had had to use a piece of hard wood, the cavity dug out at the end, the cavity burned as smooth as they could do it, in which the corn was broken into what they called samp, which they said made "a very nourishing porridge."

But as before stated, Mr. Rust in 1789 built these mills which greatly facilitated these mills which greatly facilitated advancement and growth unto which this good man contributed in many ways.

From now on, the settlement thrived. People came in from various directions, building one in Rustfield; some in the neighboring tracts which other enterprisers had purchased. These latter comers brought with them little supplies of stock; sheep to furnish their wool for protecting the settlers against the hardy winters; oxen lightened somewhat the labor of the clearing, while horses added their swiftness of service.

Roads were opened from place to place. More land was taken up and cloth increased. Stores were added; a "thriftier shop" was introduced; a carding mill constructed; a tannery built, so that in ten years from the first house the neighborhood grew to a really considerable settlement, with an ambition now awakening to have the several tracts of land incorporated under one name, and in March of 1797, an act of incorporation passed, when these contiguous tracts of land, several known as Rustfield, the Lee Gore, Cumming's Gore, the Waterford three tiers and Rust's Gore, comprehending in all about 25,000 acres inclusive of several beautiful ponds and creeks, this later became absorbed in the corporate name of Norway.

Now with this meagre canvas we have come up from the time of 1780, in which town Universalism was first organized on this Continent, have moved on past the date of 1788 in the autumn of which year, was cleared a little spot of wood, an event only five years later than the Liberal Faith had been established in America, whence we have canvassed to the year 1797, giving a swift notion of the hardships, the distresses of those yielding pioneers, a feeble presentation of the huge difficulties against which they were still struggling, yet with grave foresight and a mindfulness of the need of educational privileges had introduced schools, sometimes held in one of the cabins, sometimes a frame house, lent one of its few rooms, with a very occasional school building proper.

From the year 1788 we have moved on now to the time of 1788, thirteen years later, when religious affairs which had not been wholly neglected on the plantations, yet they had been in no wise regulated, but at this time began to be very considerably agitated, the population having attained that number which the law of Massachusetts said should "sustain a certain amount of preaching each year," and since Orthodoxy was the standing order of belief throughout all the new country, it was considered that that preaching was what was meant by the statute, therefore, all taxable persons would be liable to be assessed for its support whether or not there was an acceptance of the doctrines which Orthodoxy set forth. It transpired that

THE PEOPLE KNEW HIM.

(Benson's Plaster is Pain's Master.)
George Washington made and sold flour, and every barrel of flour in the market branded "G. Washington, Mount Vernon," sold without delay. No question was ever raised as to quality or weight.

Benson's Porous Plaster sold on its reputation everywhere. All the buyers want to be certain of it that the plaster offered them really is Benson's, and not a worthless imitator of it or substitute for it.

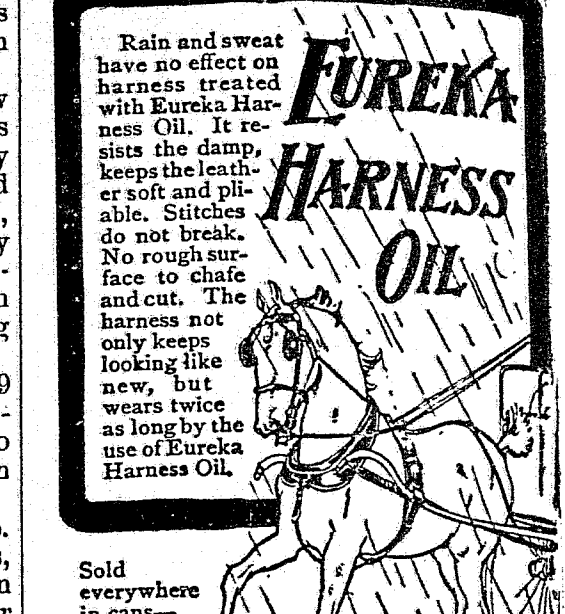

A plaster is the best form of external remedy, and Benson's is the best plaster; 5,000 physicians and druggists, and a multitude of people no man can number, have settled this. "You can trust it," they say.

Coughs, colds, lame back, lambo, muscular stiffness and rheumatism, troubles of the liver and kidneys, influenza or grip, pneumonia, and all other diseases open to external treatment, are at once relieved and cured by Benson's Plaster.

Do not assume that Belladonna, Capsicum or Strengthening plasters are "just as good as" Benson's. They are vastly inferior.—No other plaster is as good as Benson's.

In competition with the best-known plasters of Europe and America, Benson's have received fifty-five highest awards. For sale by all druggists or we will prepay postage on any number ordered in the United States, on receipt of 25c each. Seabury & Johnson, Mfg. Chemists, N. Y.

When Work Becomes an Awful Burden Dr. Greene's Nervura Restores Confidence and Health.

Has your strength given out? Have you reached the limit? Have you lost confidence in yourself? Has work become an awful burden?

Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy has cured thousands of nervous men. It is the reinforcement of the nerves to put you on your feet. Mr. H. M. Levy, 100 Mulberry St., New York City.

"I suffered for six years with terrible pain in my back and chest, and was so weak I could not attend to business from morning to night. I had tried every remedy, but nothing would do me any good. When Work Becomes an Awful Burden,
Dr. Greene's Nervura Restores Confidence and Health.

Has your strength given out? Have you reached the limit? Have you lost confidence in yourself? Has work become an awful burden?

Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy has cured thousands of just such men. It is the reinforcement Nature gives to your own strength.

Mr. H. M. Levy, 160 Mulberry St., Newark, N. J. says: "I suffered for six years with terrible racking pains in my back and chest, and was so nervous that I could not attend to business from loss of sleep and appetite, so that it almost set me in a chair. I was told to try that famous medicine, Dr. Greene's Nervura, blood and nerve remedy, and after taking not quite two bottles I found myself perfectly well. Since taking Nervura I have gained nearly 60 lbs. I have only praise for this wonderful remedy. Dr. Greene's Nervura, and I have told several customers of it and they have tried it with beneficial results. Think what cure means to you! Try to realize how happy you would be with the old strength restored. Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy will bring you health as it has to all who rely upon it. Start using it today. You'll be a different man in a week. Free counsel is given by Dr. Greene at 34 Temple Place, Boston, Mass. Call or write.

Universalist Centennial.

all the people did not believe those teachings, so extreme and rigid in their announcement of God's disposition of wrath toward mankind as unregenerate of His purpose to forever banish the unconverted to endless woe. All the people did not accept these arbitrary announcements which sometimes made a little difficulty in securing the ministerial tax by which there should be preaching provided.

Under the fact that there was a differing of even Orthodox opinions, while the law had made no provision for such attitudes, it became not uncommon throughout the whole state for individuals of like convictions to form into societies and draw back from the town treasury, their tax in order to apply it for the support of a preaching which expressed their own views.

Now, some of those very first settlers, some of the later incoming people to the settlement at this date of 1793, a few of them, for the whole number was not many, the taxable polls being only 75, which list does not indicate an altogether matured wisdom, for boys of sixteen were made voters, yet among the ripened citizens there were some who had emigrated from that town of "Good Luck," and from other places where they had heard of the arguments of the Liberal doctrine and had become convinced of its scripturalness; its reasonableness. When not liking to contribute to a preaching they did not believe, but would willingly pay their assessment to a teaching in the invincible Fatherhood of God and the doctrine of Christ as "the Saviour of the world," that little handful of Universalists, so long ago, solid in the great new impartial faith, came together in November of the year 1793, drawing up and signing the following instrument: "Whereas, it is contemplated, as a matter of public utility and advantage, to have the doctrine of the Grace of God dispensed among mankind for their mutual comfort and edification, that they thereby understand the nature and character of the Creator God, may be led to put their trust in Him at all times; and thereby feel their hearts inclined to love him, and one another, and not only view in prospect, but know in reality, how good and pleasant a thing it is for brethren to dwell together in unity, where all discord will cease and party spirit come to an end, it is contemplated to invite Brother Thomas Barnes, (who is a man of sobriety; who sustains a good moral character; who we conceive to have a good degree of understanding in the doctrines of the Grace of God, and favored with a gift to dispense the same to his fellow men) it is contemplated to invite him to move his family into these parts, where it is conceived he will be of great use in the regulation of societies, and whose decorum and good deportment will greatly adorn our profession.

It is, furthermore considered expedient, (lest we should bring a burden on him and his family) to assist him in procuring a place where his family may be comfortably situated;—we, therefore, who have heretofore subscribed agree to bestow upon him, of freedom, in choice, the sum affixed to our names, in case he moves his family named."

There were seven signatories affixed to this paper, Levi Hubbard, Daniel Staples, Nathaniel Bennett, Benjamin Witt, Levi Bartlett, Anthony Bennett, Benjamin Herring and the sum subscribed was forty dollars.

HARBOR.

"They Mixed Those Babies Up."
The items, last week, were strangely mixed with Harbors items and doubtless the readers in that vicinity wondered about the fire and unfamiliar names.

A Queer Experience.
While Mr. and Mrs. John Dennett of Saco were visiting Mr. and Mrs. Fred Farrington, recently, Mr. Dennett had a queer experience. Standing in the house in the bay window he put shells into a double barrel gun and in trying to shut the gun he accidentally discharged it, hitting the window sill going through the lower sash and smashing two panes of glass and lodging in the fence across the yard. The noise nearly stunned his wife who sat in the window and frightened the cows beyond the fence. Mr. D. himself was some surprised and hereafter will look out for a gun that isn't even loaded.

Annie Pray is spending her vacation at home.

Universalist Centennial.

clared those other believers traduced the Universalist society, bewailed that a heresy so flagrant should have gotten the first foothold in the town, wondered they had not hastened themselves to protect the rising generation from so unsafe a belief—a faith without scriptural warrant and unintelligent, that virtually asserted man could be as wicked as he chose and not at all jeopardise his getting into heaven.
They never thought so dangerous a doctrine could get any foothold, yet there it was, introduced ahead of their own better beliefs, established right under their eyes and thriving by the consent of the most worthy and most worthy and enterprising citizens.

What could they do but traduce it, malign it, oppose it by any personal affront they could venture to thrust upon its supporters, hoping that this larger interpretation of all souls as decreed unto final salvation, hoping this understanding of the mission of the Saviour would dissipate and disappear of its very liberality.

Universalism in 1793 did not have a very easy existence. It contested every step of the way then, as it contests now, before discredit and denial; yet, as true principles obtain in the beginning of the 20th century, they obtained at the close of the 18th, though with a greater slowness, then under the hardship of no "advanced scholarship" or the "Higher Criticism" which today seems to be revealing that the Universalism of a hundred years ago was not an expensive doctrine to cover all the liberal inferences which are the finding of the present research.

We have come in our review to the date of October, 1799, when an Eastern Association was formed of the societies in the circuit over which Mr. Barnes was presiding.
Our next record is of April 12th, 1800, when the first religious society in Norway, after regular notice, met at the dwelling of Henry Rust, choosing a moderator to govern the said meeting, a clerk for that present year, a committee for the keeping of the regulations in the society, and voted that that committee settle with Thomas Barnes for his services as preacher for the year 1799, and also to agree with him to preach with us part of the present year.

Evidently on that day they settled with the minister for we find his receipt of "full compensation for services as preacher of the gospel in the society for the year 1799. Signed by me, Thomas Barnes, Apr. 12th, 1800."
The amount which had been subscribed by those twelve proprietors was twenty-four dollars, but we are to recall Norway was on a circuit of three preaching places, so likely his compensation was more.

About this time the subject of Mr. Barnes' ordination was agitated. Though devoted to the work of the ministry he had not been publicly set over its various duties, but in September, 1801, he made application to the General Convention, which was in session at Swansey, N. H., which application was granted, and four months later the function took place at Gray. And furthermore, "About this time the General Court of Boston, where he exercised much influence in changing the laws regarding ministerial taxes and the incorporation of religious societies. Immediately thereafter several societies in which he was specially interested petitioned the General Court for incorporation, the act for Paris and Norway passing in March, 1805, with 24 names as members."

Now, going back to the old history we were pursuing, we find on the date of April 21st 1801, there was notice given of a meeting to be held on the 4th of the ensuing May at the dwelling house of Joseph Rust, which same was duly held, and among the items of business arranged a committee be chosen to give certificates to any person, or persons, belonging to the Christian Independent Society who may apply for the same, in order that they may be exempted from being obliged to assist support of any other religious society.

The amount subscribed for preaching that year is not given, but Mr. Barnes' receipt, dated Apr. 5th, 1802, affirms he had been paid forty dollars in full compensation for services in Paris and Norway the last twelve months.

Next, in April of 1802 there was notice that the "annual meeting of the society" would be held on the tenth of the ensuing May at the meeting house.

You will recall that before these sessions had been held in some of the homes of the subscribers, the last call on the 4th of May, 1801, so specifying.

No record is given of such a big event as the erecting or the buying of a building to be called the meeting house! But one must have been put up or secured in some way, between these dates, the first building for Universalist worship in the State of Maine erected on this spot where the one in which we are today gathered stands. And there is no record of building the same. The traditions of the society declare this was the voluntary work and subscription of all those proprietors who desired a special central place in which to hold their services.

Singular there is no word of its being built, just merely a mention in the first notice of an annual meeting in 1802 it would be at the meeting house.

This could not have come of itself. It might have evolved out of some structure they could move to this spot. And perhaps the gladness of possessing so soon a house of Divine worship, the first one in the town, may have overlaid any thought of recording it, or any forecast that one hundred years later a larger and as abiding a church should be inquiring what and how came its initial.

On May 10th, 1802, we find where a meeting was held with subscriptions again written to support Mr. Barnes for the ensuing year.

In the succeeding October occurred another event, the abiding of which has passed down to this day, and will go on as long as there is a utilizing of this spot here in the interest of Universalism.

Henry Rust, the man whom we know as having purchased a tract in this District of Maine which soon bore the name of Rustfield, but a little later with other purchases was incorporated under the name of Norway. This man of a liberal belief, a great help to the pioneers, generous of spirit every way, donated this very spot of land here to that society of Christian Independents, a piece of one acre and 24 square rods to be forever used in the way of the Universalist church or revert to his natural heirs.

Next we find the calling of an annual session in May of 1803, but no article which mentions the building of Mr. Barnes which was certainly done through 1803 & 4 for his receipt follows, declaring that on Aug. 20th, 1805, he received from the treasurer the sum of $158.50 in full for preaching from Apr. 5th, 1802 to Apr. 5th, 1805.

In January of this last named year there was called an extra session to make up a deficiency to pay Mr. Barnes, and the Rev. Mr. Root, whom thus it seems had occasionally spoken to them, though this is the first mention of his name in the record.

There occurs no further report of the society until 1816, then simply a call for an annual meeting.

In an easy and unassuming way the history goes on to say Mr. Barnes continued to preach to the society a portion of the time up to the year of his death, which was in 1816. It spoke of him as a man of untiring industry, of great integrity, "a man of strength and power, who revealed not again, being reviled, but with the message which fell graciously from his lips, he went toward building up the doctrines which possessed his soul. He was happy in all his relationships, particularly in the companionship of his home, and though at his death they buried his remains in the cemetery near his house, but much later the people of the Norway church which he had so long instituted desired to have him removed to this cemetery, and over at Pine Grove lies the dust of the minister who preached Universalism in the very wilderness and newness of Norway's beginning.

Now the record passes to 1822 before it marks the calling of another annual meeting.
But in the Memoirs of Sylvanus Cobb, D. D., we find this item which reports that the Norway pulpit had been occasionally supplied during the four years between 1816 and 1820 by Rust, Barwell and Streeter. This Sylvanus Cobb, born in Norway July 17, 1798, grew to an industrial and moral young manhood, trained by his most careful mother in the doctrines of Calvinism, and became a true punishment. But was far from being reconciled to it, and at sixteen years of age he reasoned out of the distress of that doctrine into the peace of the liberal faith. For two or three years he attended still the school of Norway, taught by this date by a Noah Cresswell, who was the Orthodox clergyman of the place.

Cobb was given a certificate of competency to teach in 1817. In 1820 he entered the study of Sebastian Streeter, the Universalist minister of Portsmouth, N. H., to prepare for the ministry, and commenced preaching so soon as one month from his enlistment with Mr. Streeter, taking a sort of missionary attitude which brought him to Norway the next November.

One of his old friends, Ichabod Bartlett, was at this time agent of the village district and engaged him on excellent pay for the time to teach the school the three winter months, and Universal board in rotation permitting him to have the board money from the town treasury to himself, and also kept him preaching most of the Sabbaths at three dollars a Sunday; which was a liberal compensation, for the regular fee for the veteran ministers was but five.

Mr. Cobb in his diary of those days pays a dear tribute to the pioneers of Norway for their early encouragement to his earliest interests and efforts.

In 1822 the church record begins again with a meeting of the 1st Universalist society of Norway and Paris.

Here is a place where one may mention the different names the society has worn and the dates of their taking out.

"The Religious Society in Norway," 1799; "The Christian Independent Society of Norway," 1801; "The Universalist Society of Norway," 1802; "The Society of Christian Independents," 1803; "The Society of the Independent Universalists," 1804; "The Christian Independent Society of Universalists," 1805; "The Universalist Society of Norway and Paris," 1820.

In 1822 there was a call for the annual meeting, one purpose of which was "to vote money for the support of the gospel ministry for the ensuing year." When was voted sixty dollars to be raised on or before the next March, and the charge to the collector reads: "If any person shall refuse, or neglect, to pay this sum he is assessed, the collector shall detain the goods or chattels of such persons to the value thereof, and the distress so taken, to keep four days at the cost and charge of the owner; and if he shall not pay the sum so assessed within the four days, then you are to sell at public vendue, for the payment thereof with charges, notice of such sale being posted in some public place in the same town, forty-eight hours next before the sale and expiration of the four days aforesaid; and the overplus arising by such sale, if any there be, shall be immediately restored to the owner; and for want of goods and chattels whereon to make distress for the space of twelve days, you are to take the body of such persons so refusing or neglecting, and commit him to the jail in said county, there to remain until he pay the sum, or such part thereof as shall not be abated by the assessors of said society, for the time being, or the court of sessions for said county."

It would seem there was no evading one's proportioned part of the support of a society then; and we may easily picture there was never any occasion to apply this extreme measure, for we next discover that the society is outgrowing its meeting house.

Seven years after there had been established the society of "Christian Independents," a Baptist society was organized, which grew apace, yet for the twenty years of its then existence, it had no house in which to worship, but in 1828, as the Universalists were thinking of giving up theirs to construct a larger, the society having grown to fifty paying members, negotiations were entered into between these societies, with the result that the Baptists bought the Universalist meeting house, moved it across the street on to a lot which John Rust had given for the purpose; said act of gift being the deciding feature of its purchase. In connection with the sale there was an agreement, that each of the two societies should have an equal right in the use of the house for one year from the date of the sale. The purchase was for eight dollars a pew, the Baptists allowing each present pew owner to retain the one he had occupied, and the expenses of moving the building was apportioned to this agreement. IRRITABLE WOMEN

Should be Pitied — Not Blamed
Men Don't Understand How They Suffer When They Cry, "Oh, Don't Speak to Me."

All manner of extravagant expressions are possible when a woman's nerves are overwrought.

The spasm at the top of the wind pipe or bronchial tubes, "ball rising in the throat," violent beating of the heart, laughing and crying by turns, muscular spasms (throwing the arms about), frightened by the most insignificant occurrences—are all symptoms of a hysterical condition and serious derangement of the female organs.

Any female complaint may produce hysterics, which must be regarded as a symptom only. The cause, however, yields quickly to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which acts at once upon the organ afflicted and the nerve centres, dispelling effectually all those distressing symptoms.

Mrs. Lewis Says: "I Feel Like a New Person, Physically and Mentally."

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I wish to speak a good word for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. For years I had ovarian trouble and suffered everything from nervousness, severe headache, and pain in back and abdomen. I had consulted different physicians, but decided to try your medicine, and I soon found it was giving me much relief. I continued its use and now am feeling like a new person, physically and mentally, and am glad to add one more testimonial to the value of your remedy."—Mrs. M. H. LEWIS, 2108 Valentine Ave., Trenton, New York, N.Y.

Writing to Mrs. Pinkham is the quickest and surest way to get the right advice about all female troubles. Her address is Lynn, Mass. She advises women free. Following is an instance:

Mrs. Haven's First Letter to Mrs. Pinkham.
"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I would like your advice in regard to my troubles. I suffer every month at time of menstruation, and flow so much, and for so long that I become very weak, also get very dizzy. I am troubled with a discharge before and after menses, have pains in ovaries so bad sometimes that I can hardly get around, have sore feeling in lower part of bowels, pain in back, bearing-down feeling, a desire to pass urine frequently, with pains in passing it; have leucorrhoea, headache, fainting spells, and sometimes hysterics. My blood is not in good condition. Hoping to hear from you, I am, Mrs. EMMA HAVEN, 2508 South Ave., Council Bluffs, Iowa." (June 3, 1899.)

Mrs. Haven's Second Letter.
"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I wish to express my gratitude for what you have done for me. I suffered for four years with womb troubles. Every month I flowed very badly. I got so bad that I could hardly do my work. Was obliged to sit or lie down most of the time. I doctored for a long time, but obtained no relief. I began using your remedies—Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, Blood Purifier, Sanative Wash and Liver Pills—and now feel like a new woman."—Mrs. EMMA HAVEN, 2508 South Ave., Council Bluffs, Iowa. (Feb. 1, 1900.)

$5000 REWARD.—We have deposited with the National City Bank of Lynn, $5000, which will be paid to any person who can find and identify the author of the letters above, who are not genuine, or who published them without the writer's special permission. Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

agreed to move, at his own expense, the house of the Universalist Society, built of good material, finished in the best manner and handsome style. The architect, Mr. Ezra Beal, spared no pains or expense in doing his work faithfully, honoring himself in its quality. Mr. Ichabod Bartlett, the contractor for the material, procured it all of good quality, to the entire satisfaction of the committee. The house has a patent cast steel bell procured through the agency of Asa Barton—a bell of the finest description, most excellent tone, and is heard six or eight miles away. The pews are all solid, the whole business conducted without the least difference between the committee and contractor.

that indolent society and saw a fine new church go up largely by his instrumen-tality.

During his administration here there was built the parsonage, the meeting house was repaired, a spire added to the cupola and the windows altered.

In Dec. 1868, an invitation was extended to Rev. L. H. Tabor, who came in '69, remaining several years. Interested in all good moves he was counted a valuable member of the community. An earnest, able preacher, the society thrived along well, new members adding themselves. He remained till '77, when he went to Vermont but returned in three years to buy a home at Bryant's Pond,
where he resided for some years.

In March of '77, Rev. J. A. Seitz was called, who remained four years. Mr.
Seitz was a scholarly man, able and ready as a speaker, his gift at sermonizing is to-day recalled with much commendation. Under him members were added to the society, thirteen at one election,
and the house was shingled, painted,
the money raised by a loan of $300.

Mr. Seitz having ended his pastorate, Rev. W. W. Hooper was called, who came in '81. Mr. Hooper was a postgraduate of St. Lawrence University, was ordained at Gayville, Vt., in '76,
subsequently preached in Huntington,
N. Y., whence he came here in '81, bringing with him his mother and sister
as his family. A genial and industrious man, entering along the ways of his vocation, making outside as well as inside friends, he filled the place of pastor and preacher with ability, remaining three years, whence he went to Machanic falls, thence to Orono and Oldtown.
Then he was elected as State Missionary for Maine, which difficult office he has engaged with great ability and success, and we hope he may be continued
as the efficient adjuster and promoter of dispersed and domestic societies, and a suggester and discloser of new ones.

In 1883, Mrs. M. A. Oxnard by virtue of the wish of her lately deceased husband, conveyed to the society a sum of $500 which same was gratefully accepted and acknowledged. The income is available for parish purposes and it constitutes the first bestowment to the church
since that very early deed of the land
given by Henry Rust in 1902.

In April, 1884, a call was extended to
Rev. G. E. Angell to preach at Norway.
He came directly from Pittsfield the following May and is the president.

In 1887, there was voted into the society, as members thereof, forty-seven ladies who had been steadily interested, acting often upon committees and in offices.

Miss Angell's connection with Paris was severed in 1888, since when all her service has been given to this place. In 1893, a large amount of repairing was done to this church. Memorial windows were supplied by the members, till there was room for no more. Later the pa-ronage was improved, the upright part being lifted to a two story size; adding exceedingly to its convenience and comfort.

Affairs moved busily on till in 1894,
Miss Angell received a call from Carolina and passed in her resignation here which, however, was not accepted and she withdrew it to remain.

At Easter of 1895 there were 37 adult members taken into the church, with each Easter since adding to this number till there are over 67 who were made members since 1895, with the children lifting a junior membership up to 67.

In 1894, by the will of Henry Beauregard, in the name of his deceased wife and daughter, bequeathed to this society $2000, half of the income of which is to be annually added to the principal, the rest
for current expenses.

In 1899, Mrs. Delphia Hawkins, by will, left to the society property appraised at $2700, the income of which can be entirely used. This was a gift of love for this woman had signal affection
for the church of her faith and worship.
These several legacies are a price well paid for the society often eliciting strength to the parish approval and gratitude.

In 1900, a family, friends and well wishers of this church gave it a beautiful bell, the old one having for years been cracked, this, with its perfect vibration came as a gracious bestowment, and duly rung, was heard first at the annual meeting in Jan. 1901, being listened to by the whole gathering with an attention that expressed how much was the gladness. This same year, in August, these same were interested to put the church and gave new windows to Concert Hall. This kindness elicited our unanimous thanks and constitute one of the reasons our great peace with the structure.

Thus a little historically as to the special facts, we have come down the line of this church's existence, regretting we could not pause to give regard here to more of the people, who were sources of its strength and success.

There were the Greenings, the Ames,
the Bixons, the Frosts, the Gallisons, the Knights, the Stowells, the Tubbs, the Yonges, the Shackleys, the Danforths and others, a long list of worthy men who loved the faith, sacrificed to its support and have most of them left descendants who chiefly are Universalists
now.

Beside those, who early were called proprietors, there is a list of whom were clerks, who chiefly kept careful record of the society's proceedings. Joseph Rust served from the first till 1816, then Isabod Bartlett till 1829, after which there were several irregular ones till 1842, when Eben Shackley was elected, serving till 1850; then Lee Mixer till 1861, when Mr. Edwin Howe, remembered of us all to-day, was chosen and held the position till the close of the year 1889; when Chas. F. Ridlon was made clerk and is ably fulfilling all the duties of the office to-day.

Now, the whole of these people, following down through the cycle of years, who have been mentioned as true and faithful supporters and helpers, beside others signally honorable and abiding, but whose names are not recalled, the strengthened and quickened by a witness of their fealty, the believers of the present times are to more and more build up in personal loyalty to a society, which, organizing under measureless difficulties of an hundred years ago, has become a sacred inheritance to be so next Centennial, the historian can further emphasize the proud judgment of to-day that "The 1st Universalist Society of this State is Maine's handsome heritage for all the centuries to come."

RECORD OF THE PAST

No Stronger Evidence Can Be Had.

Look well to their record. What they have done many times in years gone by,
is the best guarantee of future results.
Anyone with a bad back; any reader suffering from urinary troubles, from any kidney ills, will find in the following evidence proof that relief and cure is near at hand:

Mr. Patrick O. Dwyer, mason, of 62
White street, New Haven, Conn., says:
"In 1896 when Doan's Kidney Pills cured me of backache which always bothered me when I caught cold, which hurt me when I stooped, or straightened after stooping, which refused to disappear under treatment of different medicines, I was only too pleased to let the people of New Haven know the fact through our newspapers. Three years from that date, or in the month of May, 1899, I just as ardently recommend Doan's Kidney Pills
as I did when they effected the cure mentioned above. My advice to anyone suffering from kidney complaint is, call at a drug store, procure Doan's Kidney Pills, take them as directed, and you will be surprised at the results."

FORTY years ago the finest tea brought to this country was imported by Chase & Sanborn. It was the famous Garden Tea grown under expert management. To-day this same tea, each pound imprisoned in lead and hermetically sealed from the air, is still imported by this house and may be bought by those who can find it. If you care to taste a delicious cup of tea, ask your grocer to get you a half pound lead brick of Chase

High School Lecture Course.
The first lecture of this season's course under the auspices of the Oxford County High School took place, last Friday evening, in the Opera House.

A. M. Rollins, principal of the high school, made a few preliminary remarks and introduced the speaker of the evening, Geo. W. Cable, D. Litt. who gave readings from his celebrated book (a true story) entitled "Dr. Sevier."

Mr. Cable is a speaker of high literary attainments and has the power to sway his audience to such a degree as very few possess, besides being an inimitable mimic.

From the characters in his book, he took for the evening's entertainment several of the most prominent and introduced the brogue of an Irish wanderer, the accent of the Frenchman and of an Italian perfectly. He also sang several Creole songs.

He then described the scene when the soldiers went from among the Creoles at the opening of the Civil war, 1861, and the escape through the rebel lines of a spy, and a woman and her child who was trying to reach her husband. The audience was very appreciative of the efforts of Mr. Cable in this direction.

There was a very good sized attendance at this lecture and everything points to a very successful lecture season, financially and otherwise.

The next lecture of the course will be held, Wednesday evening, Dec. 4, when Henry L. Chapman, D. D., professor of literature at Bowdoin College, will give readings on the works of Robert Burns.

The third entertainment of the season will be given by the Bowdoin College Mandolin and Glee Club. This is a well known organization of nearly thirty members and it will be well worth the price of admission to hear them.

Help Gets an Oyster Supper.

Charles E. Ridlon, proprietor of the grocery store at the corner of Main and Danforth streets, is out on oyster supper. Mr. Ridlon agreed with his help the first of that week, that beginning the 4th of November if they sold 500 pounds of O'Donohue's coffee, which they were advertising at that time, he would give them all an oyster supper at his house after work, Saturday night. They sold a great deal over 500 pounds during the week and Mr. Ridlon had to stand treat.

The State manager for O'Donohue's very much pleased with the results obtained from their advertisement in the ADVERTISER. He went to Gorham, N. H., and on the strength of their "ad." in this paper sold over 1300 lbs. of coffee. This is the testimony of the manager himself and not imagination.

Douglass Farrar was the recent guest of friends in Lewiston.

John P. Swasey of Canton and a grandson were in town, Monday.

Mrs. Laura A. Everett will visit in Lewiston the next two weeks.

George E. Macomber of Augusta was in Norway, Friday on business.

The several Norway churches received invitations to attend the centennial exercises.

Ferdinand Swan has been deer hunting, the past few days, in the vicinity of Bethel.

Sadie Symonds from Bates College spent the Sabbath with her father, John Symonds.

W. E. Perkins and F. Bolster shot a partridge while out fox hunting, the other day.

Jos. Lemire has gone to Berlin, N. H., to work in the stitching room of the shoe factory.

The Barton Reading Club was entertained by Mrs. Elinor Jones, last Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Walter S. Chandler is sick with a lung trouble. Her friends are quite anxious about her.

Maynard S. Bird of Rockland, manager of the Eastern Telephone Company, was in Norway, Tuesday night.

C. H. Adams, who has contracted to build Mrs. Isabella M. Keith's new residence at Oxford, is working there on it.

J. A. Starbird has moved from his farm in Paris and will spend the winter in E. C. Thompson's house in this village.

We are told on what seems good authority that tramp constable Oliver Shackley has been indulging in coasting with the children.

We will be pleased to send you a sample school rank blank on request. We send them at any address postage paid for ten cents per dozen.

Mrs. John M. French, mother of Mrs. F. P. Stone, has gone to Port Deposit, Md., to spend the winter with her son, Prof. J. S. French of that city.

The fall term of school in the Holt district, Norway, closes, Nov. 22, with a box supper and entertainment. Proceeds for the benefit of the school.

Howard Sanborn, who has been sick with a lung trouble for several weeks at the Ginn Hotel, is thought to be a little better. He is a brother of Mrs. E. J. Rowe.

Among those who entertained whist parties, the past week, were Mrs. Charles Sargent, Emma Smith, Mrs. E. F. Bradbury, Mrs. George F. Hathaway and Cora Shedd.

Capt. J. W. Nash has been visited by his mother, Mrs. Samuel B. Nash. Mrs. Nash has undergone a severe surgical operation at the Maine General Hospital in Portland.

Merritt Welch of Sanford, for many years one of the leading dry goods merchants in our village, was in town the last of last week. His old friends were all glad to see him.

Mark Wetzler and Henry Thurston's families have moved from Water street to the Savings Bank house on upper Main street. They will occupy both tenements in the house.

Frank Bailey has moved into one of C. B. Cummings & Sons' houses in Upper Fiddleville. James True has moved from Dr. H. L. Bartlett's house on Main street into the house just vacated by Mr. Bailey.

A new board banking has been built around the foundation of Dr. B. F. Bradbury's house to guard against the winter storms. A new partition has also been built around part of the piazza for a similar purpose.

Mr. and Mrs. Solomon N. Cloudman of Lynn, Mass., who were married in Norway in November, 1891, by Rev. A. Green, have recently celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary. Mr. Cloudman was the son of Rev. Solomon Cloudman, a preacher, and also one of the early millers in South Paris. The golden wedding was attended by their thirty or more grandchildren and one hundred fifty or more friends. Many valuable presents were received.

Noble's Corner School

The entertainment and box supper at Noble's Corner schoolhouse, Saturday evening, Nov. 16, was well attended and a financial success. The proceeds for the benefit of the school amounted to $1. Miss Millett, the teacher, scholars, parents and outsiders have labored to make the evening a success. The music teacher, Mr. Monroe, kindly assisted during the evening. The following is the program:

Mrs. Betsey W. Greenleaf will spend the holidays with her son, Elgin Greenleaf, at Bangor.

George W. Horne, supervisor of music in the Lewiston school, has been elected to go to Melrose, Mass. He has decided to remain at Lewiston.

Curtis Bickford, son of Henry Bickford of East Stoneham, got a good sized deer last Saturday. It is the first one shot in that vicinity for some time.

Twelve of Norway's business men are to have club rooms in the Hotel block. This is a success to the Tully club block. Its home in the Hathaway block. This in turn grew out of a club in the Cole block.

Timothy Smith is visiting relatives at Lewiston. Probably no one in Norway has a larger acquaintance than Mr. Smith, for he has worked at the Hotel block many years and has met a great many people.

S. A. Stevens of Norway Lake went to his daughter's, Mrs. Emma Dame's, in Springvale, last Tuesday. Mr. Stevens spent the summer at the lake and will probably stay with his daughter at the above place for the winter.

"Ideas of the Philippines" by one of our own bright young men, a graduate of Norway high school, will be published in next week's ADVERTISER. This will be doubly interesting for it will be something that can be depended on as true.

Frank B. Lee, formerly superintendent of the Norway & Paris Street Railroad, has during the past fall been employed on the preliminary survey made by the Augusta, Winthrop & Lewiston line, is now engaged in electric road construction at Huntington, Ind.

Benj. F. Faunce, graduate of the University of Maine at Orono, class '98, has secured a position as mechanical engineer with the Combined Steel Works at Johnstown, Pa., at a salary of $1,200 a year. He has been filling a similar position at Steelton, Pa., some months past.

Hosea McKay went to Camp McKinley deer hunting, last Thursday. His brother, John McKay, went to the same place last week Monday. Hugh McKay went last Saturday. There are quite a large number of hunters in that camp at present.

F. P. Stone, the druggist, has recently put in two large glass show stands or cases. They occupy the center of the store and so perfect is the glass it is with difficulty that you detect it. Many customers have been seen to reach to pick up something that was inside the show case.

Alonso B. Brickett, who lives in the Pine house on the Waterford road, has sold his flock of hens to Paul Howe and is not to keep poultry, this winter. Alonso is to spend Thanksgiving with his brother, James M. Brickett of Providence, R. I. He has not seen his brother for eight or ten years.

The ladies of the Pythian Sisterhood are selling tickets for the drama, "Bird Island," at Norway Opera House, Friday evening, Dec. 6th; also for the dance after the drama. Every arrangement is being made by the management to have the whole evening of unusual interest. A play by our best local talent is always sure to draw a crowd.

We omitted to state that Guy Carter, on his recent hunting trip above Moosehead. The mouse they got measured five feet and six inches from hoof to hoof. Hundreds of people called at Mr. Carter's stable to see this animal. It was hung up front of the stable for several days. Guy got a deer on his trip.

The Humbolt Times of Eureka, California says:—"Dr. Will Moore, who enjoys a lucrative practice in Denver, recently arrived in the city, on a visit to his sister, Mrs. Buckley Whiting, whom he has not seen for thirty-five years. The doctor is traveling in order to try the effect of a change of scene and climate on the health of his wife. He is the first visitor to the Golden State and he proposes to make a leisurely tour of the coast, visiting the principal points of interest. While in California the doctor will make special trips to the various mining sections, as he is largely interested in the subject of mines and mining in the State of his adoption." Dr. Moore lived in Norway several years ago and many remember him. He is a brother of Mrs. A. T. Bennett of our village. Dr. Moore thinks that later he may go to Honolulu, H. I.

It is Amusing—
To hear men talk about the many favors they do for other men.
To see a woman adjust her skirts so as to show a pretty foot.
To hear a man boast of the struggles he had in early life to secure a business foothold.
To see a woman take on a wise look when asked to give a man advice in a love affair.

SOUTH PARIS.

Death of Mrs. John S. Barrows.
Mrs. Lucy Ann (Hally) Barrows died at her home on Gothic street, South Paris, Nov. 4th, aged about 78 years.

Mrs. Barrows was born in South Paris, Oct. 4, 1828, and was the daughter of Oprea and Lucy (Brett) Hall. She lived in that village until she was four years of age when the family moved to the Hall district and stayed until about eight years ago when she moved back to South Paris and has resided here ever since.

She married John S. Barrows in May 1852 and they lived happily together up to the time of his decease.

Five children were born to them. Emma C. and Anna L. both died when quite young and the following survive her. Oscar E. a farmer in South Paris, Edgar P., West Paris, and Mrs. Albert P. Abbott of this place with whom she resided at the time of her decease. She also has a brother, A. O. Hall of South Paris.

Mrs. Barrows was a member of the Congregational church and highly esteemed by all who knew her.

The funeral was held at the residence of Mrs. Abbott, Nov. 6, at 2 p. m., Rev. Dr. Brooks and Rev. A. W. Pottle officiating. Several hymns were sung by George A. Briggs.

The flowers were beautiful and were just enough to be prettily arranged.

Pillow, "Mother" and Mrs. E. F. Barrows, Mrs. P. Abbott, Mrs. A. J. Nevers, Bouquet, Mrs. S. B. Howe.

The following tribute was sent in by a friend expressing the esteem in which she was held by her acquaintances:

Another good woman has passed away. Mrs. John S. Barrows, who died at her residence in South Paris, was a most estimable lady and one who will be missed greatly. After a long illness she passed away leaving as a lasting heritage to her children, the memory of a faithful Christian character, a pure life and an example worthy of emulation. She rests in Jesus.

Fold over her still heart the mantle of white, Fasten each ribbon with care; So heavy the burden, drop but a few Upon the dear mother's breast; Her life was so fragrant, we should not weep— "She is not dead, she is only asleep."

In the holy hush at the hour most sad, Breathe only the simple song, And rest your head on her breast, When the days and the nights were long, She "talks with her Jesus"—why should we weep?

Mother is not dead—she is only asleep.

WEST LOVELL.

Reasonable Excuses but not Perfect.
School closed, Nov. 15, taught by Blanche Adams of North Stoneham.

Wyman and Albert Kimball did not miss a day; Lee was absent on account of sickness one day; Ralph McAllister was absent to attend fair one day and did not attend the first day. McAllister attended fair one day, sick five days.

Alonso Lord shot a deer on Monday, Nov. 11.

Arthur Nicols and friends of Lynn have returned home.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Dawes of Harrison were here last week and engaged Evelyn Lord to work for them this coming winter.

The Smiths of Stow have captured the five young cattle that escaped from the drove of Wyman Harnden of East Fryeburg.

Roy LeBaron was down from Rumford Fall last week after his wife and two sons. He was accompanied by his brother Herbert.

OTISFIELD.

Severe Case of Appendicitis.
Elias Davis is very sick with appendicitis.

Six inches of snow fell the 14th. Herbert Sylvester has built a new piazza.

Coughs and colds are very prevalent in this vicinity.

George Green and family have moved to North Bridgton.

Willie Ames is working for James Thomases of Harrison.

Charlie Spurr of Newton, Mass., is visiting at Spurr's.

Joe Edwards has gone up country to work in the woods this winter.

Arthur Bean and Mabel Stone attended the dance at Spurr's Corner recently.

Bennie Wight and Arthur Smith are at work for George Scribner cutting wood.

School closed in district No. 1, Nov. 15, taught by Blanche Dean of South Paris. It was a very successful term.

Hiram Edwards and wife have been visiting friends and relatives, the past week, at Westbrook, South Windham, Sebago Lake and Naples. They returned home Saturday.

HARRISON.

A few new, modern mail boxes made of metal have been placed at some points of the delivery route in the suburbs of Harrison.
